Tana French - Television Drama

Tana French's exceptional Dublin Murder Squad series is being adapted for television, to be aired on BBC One.

The first two books, In the Woods and The Likeness, both New York Times bestsellers, are being reimaged for the screen by Sarah Phelps who has recently adapted several Agatha Christie books for the BBC.

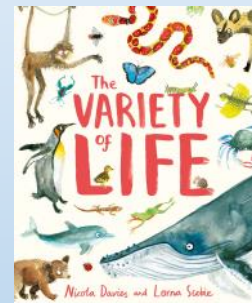

Tana is taking a backseat on the production of the series, telling BookBrunch 'I'm not involved in the TV production at all. I'm not a screenwriter, and I figure the best thing is to leave it to the professionals. There are some great people involved.'

Production on the series starts next year and the BBC has promised to deliver 'a contemporary world of psychological mystery and darkness with a tap root that is sunk deep in Ireland's past.'

Congratulations Tana!

Frankfurt Book Fair 2017

The Rights team from Darley Anderson were out in full force at the Frankfurt Book Fair this year.

There was a fantastic energy and a hugely positive and optimistic atmosphere. During the fair, the team were in back-to-back half-hour meetings with publishers from all around the world.

It's hard work (a couple of them lost their voices by the end) but it's also great fun and a highlight of the year.

This year was particularly exciting as our author Beth O'Leary's debut title, The Flatshare, was making serious waves at the fair, with numerous territories sold.

We want to say a huge thank you to the Rights team for their incredible hard work!
